

NOTES ON THE CONTRIBUTORS

Daniele Bertini is adjunct professor of Philosophy at the University of Rome 2, Tor Vergata, where he teaches classes of Introduction to Philosophy and Analytic Philosophy of Religion. He specialized in analytic philosophy of religion, but he is competent also in overlapping disciplines as history of religious doctrines (especially Christian Theology), philosophy of language, and epistemology. His works focus mainly on the epistemology of religious belief and the challenge of religious diversity. He authored four books (on George Berkeley, on Bultmann, on Heraclion, and on the problem of Religious Diversity), three collections (on the role of experience in Theology, on moral heteronomy, and on relations), and published in journals as Dialegethai, International Journal of Philosophy and Theology, Religions, European Journal for Philosophy of Religion, Philosophia, Nuovo Giornale di Filosofia della Religione and Dialogo Journal. Contact: daniele.bertini@uniroma2.it.

Mark Anthony L. Dacela earned his PhD from De La Salle University Manila where he is also an Associate Professor and serves as the current Vice Chair of the Department of Philosophy. He has published works in epistemology, ethics, and education in Intersections, Educational Philosophy and Theory, Diametros, Kritike, Asia-Pacific Social Science Review, and Philosophia: International Journal of Philosophy. He is one of the editors of the forthcoming anthology of Stephen Hetherington's works to be published by Bloomsbury. Contact: mark.anthony.dacela@dlsu.edu.ph.

Mohammadreza Esmkhani received his B.A. and M.A. in philosophy from the University of Tehran and his Ph.D. from the Iranian Institute of Philosophy. His main research interests are philosophy of science, epistemology, philosophy of language, history of modern philosophy, and pragmatism. Contact: m.r.esmkhani@irip.ac.ir; m.r.esmkhani@gmail.com.

Nicolas C. Gonzalez is currently studying philosophy at the University of Miami. His main research interests include metaphysics, phenomenology, aesthetics, epistemology, ethics, law, economics, and their intersections. Contact: ncg90@miami.edu.

Logos & Episteme

Napoleon M. Mabaquiao, Jr. earned his Ph.D. from De La Salle University Manila where he is also a Full Professor and serves as the current Graduate School Coordinator of the Department of Philosophy. He specializes in the philosophy of language, philosophy of mind, and ethics. His works are published in Theorema, Kemanusiaan, Philosophia: International Journal of Philosophy, Kritike, Diametros, and Asia-Pacific Social Science Review. He is the author of the book Mind, Science, and Computation (foreworded by Tim Crane). Contact: napoleon.mabaquiao@dlsu.edu.ph.