

NOTES ON THE CONTRIBUTORS

Wai Lok Cheung works on the necessary a posteriori with his M.Phil. thesis at The Chinese University of Hong Kong, generating an epistemic counterpart theory using indistinguishability. His work is published in Logos & Episteme, Australasian Journal of Philosophy, Asian Studies, teorema, Comparative Philosophy, and Journal of Comparative Literature and Aesthetics. More can be found at <http://hongkonggray.com/>. Contact: hongkonggray@gmail.com.

Oliver Kletz is a PhD student in philosophy at the University of Nottingham, UK. He works in decolonial philosophy of religion and history, focusing on the epistemic harm done by historians of colonial modernity on Christian antiquity. He has particular interest in the retroactive separation of early Christianity from both Gnosticism and Judaism. Contact: Oliver.Kletz@nottingham.ac.uk.

Artūrs Logins is Assistant Professor of Philosophy at Université Laval (Canada) and Research Associate at the African Institute for Epistemology and Philosophy of Science (ACEPS), University of Johannesburg (South Africa). His research focuses on knowledge-first epistemology, the theory of normative reasons, and the epistemology of inquiry, with recent work also exploring connections between emotions, justification, and gradability. He is the author of Normative Reasons: Between Reasoning and Explanation (Cambridge University Press, 2022) and A Critical Introduction to Knowledge-First Epistemology (Bloomsbury Academic, 2026), and co-editor of Putting Knowledge to Work: New Perspectives for Knowledge-First Epistemology (Oxford University Press, 2024). Contact: arturs.logins@fp.ulaval.ca.

Tiegue Vieira Rodrigues is a Professor in the Department of Philosophy at the Federal University of Santa Maria (UFSM), where he coordinates the CIM Research Group within the Graduate Program in Philosophy and the EpistemeLab-UFSM. He is also Coordinator of the Graduate Program in Philosophy of the Federal University of Santa Maria. His research focuses on Epistemology, including Sources of Knowledge (Memory), Social Epistemology, and Practical and Epistemic Rationality. He investigates the nature, scope, and justification of knowledge, as well as the social and collective dimensions of knowledge production. He holds a PhD in Philosophy (Epistemology) from PUCRS (2011), during which he completed a visiting research period at Rutgers University, USA (sandwich program, 2009–2010) under the supervision of Peter Klein. He has been a postdoctoral research at Universität zu Köln (2022–2023, CAPES PrInt Fellow)) under the supervision of Sven Bernecker, and at PUCRS (2016) under the supervision of Cláudio de Almeida, developing work on memory, social epistemology, and rationality. Contact: tiegue.rodriques@ufsm.br.

Johnny Sakr is a philosopher, bioethicist, and Assistant Professor of Law at Prince Sultan University, Saudi Arabia. He holds a PhD in Law, an MPhil in Law, a Master of Bioethics, an LLM in Commercial Transactions, a Graduate Diploma of Legal Practice, and an LLB. His research lies at the intersection of metaphysics, moral philosophy, bioethics, health law, and the governance of emerging biomedical and artificial intelligence technologies, with particular focus on moral status, vulnerability-based obligations, reproductive ethics, and AI governance. His work has appeared in leading law, philosophy, medical ethics, and bioethics journals, including Ethics (forthcoming), Medical Law Review, The American Journal of Bioethics, npj Digital Medicine, Journal of Medical Ethics, AJOB Neuroscience, Philosophy & Technology, Theoretical Medicine and Bioethics, Journal of Bioethical Inquiry, Monash Bioethics Review, and New Bioethics. Contact: jsakr@psu.edu.sa.

Brian Weatherson is the Marshall M. Weinberg Professor of Philosophy at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. He is the author of Normative Externalism (Oxford, 2019), A History of Philosophy Journals (Michigan, 2022), and Knowledge: A Human Interest Story (Open Book, 2024), as well as articles in Philosophers' Imprint, Ergo, Journal for the History of Analytic Philosophy, Australasian Journal of Logic, and many other journals. Contact: brian@weatherson.org.

Alice Wheatley is an affiliated scholar at SOCRATES, Leibniz University Hannover and a visiting research fellow at the University of East Anglia, where she received her PhD. Her research interests include topics in epistemology and environmental philosophy. Contact: alice.wheatley@philos.uni-hannover.de.

Alexandre Ziani de Borba is Professor at the State University of Feira de Santana (UEFS), Brazil. He received both his B.A. and PhD from the Federal University of Santa Maria (UFSM), Brazil. His research focuses on intellectual excellences and virtue epistemology. He has published a book on philosophy of science, A ética da pesquisa científica (Dialética, 2026), as well as articles and book reviews in journals such as Unisinos Journal of Philosophy, Manuscrito, Principia, Dissertatio, Cognitio-Estudios, and Educação e Filosofia. He has also co-edited the first collection of essays in Portuguese on intellectual character, Virtudes e vícios da mente humana (Fi, 2024). Contact: azborba@uefs.br.